

Exploring the future of conservation with plenary speaker Dr. Stan Temple

Speaker/Organizer: Stan Temple

Moderator: Dave Woods

Abstract: This workshop will explore participants' views of conservation on a range of issues, as a way of informing discussions about the future of conservation. Recent debates about the future of conservation are often dominated by polarized positions. In this workshop, we will explore the wider range of views that exist within the conservation community by challenging participants to reveal their views on a range of issues. Participants MUST bring their own smartphone, tablet or laptop that will allow them to take an online survey. Participants can expect small group discussion about survey results and other group activities that will drive the larger discussion about the future of conservation.
